MUSEUM LECTURE, March 27 3:30 p.m.

Miss Helen Lowenthal, lecturer from the Victoria and Albert Museum of art in London, will discuss THE ENGLISH COUNTRY HOUSE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, March 27 in the auditorium of The Cleveland Museum of Art. Specifically, Miss Lowenthal will point out the cultural relationship between English country houses and 18th century Whig society. Her talk will be illustrated with colored slides.

Miss Lowenthal is also an extra-mural lecturer for Cambridge and London universities and Hillcroft College. She is quite interested in adult education and was responsible for organizing (under the auspices of the National Trust) the Summer School on English Houses at Attingham Park.
